MEMORANDUM FOR AS300 STUDENTS

FROM: AFROTC DET 150/APAS

SUBJECT: Syllabus, AFR 3220, Leading People and Effective Communication

1. Welcome to the fall semester of Air Force ROTC and the POC. I hope you had a great summer and an enlightening Field Training experience. You should now know a great deal more about your leadership capabilities and potential than you did before departing for the summer. My goal is to ensure you capitalize on that knowledge throughout this semester by serving as role models and mentors to the GMC cadets.
2. The course material in this class is built to help you step further out of your comfort zone, learn more about your leadership style, and how to effectively communicate. Class discussion is paramount as we'll actively incorporate real-life examples from your time in ROTC and personal experiences.
3. Your number one priority while participating in AFROTC is your academic performance. We cannot commission you into the Air Force if you do not maintain academic requirements for graduation. Communicate early and often if you are struggling in any academic area.
4. I'm truly excited to be your instructor for this year and am here to help you succeed as you prepare to become outstanding officers in the United States Air Force. Please take advantage of my open-door policy and utilize the mentorship opportunities you have from cadets and cadre here at Det 150. I can be reached at (352) 294-0747 or nwikowsky@ufl.edu.

AS300 Syllabus – Fall 2025

COURSE DESCRIPTION & OBJECTIVES

1. Title – AFR 3220, Leading People and Effective Communication

Course Objective – AFR 3220 is designed to build on the leadership fundamentals taught in AS200. The students will have the opportunity to utilize their skills as they begin to take on more of a leadership role in the detachment. The goal is for students to have a more in-depth understanding of how to effectively lead people and provide them with tools to use throughout their detachment leadership roles. Secondly, students will hone their writing and briefing skills. Many students will be uncomfortable with public speaking, and this semester is designed to get them used to briefing. The second semester of AS300 is centered on leadership and ethics and is mostly guided discussion. The goal is to get students to think about leadership through their lens and give them some tools to improve their leadership skills.

2. Instructor – Major Nathan A. Wikowsky, 211 Van Fleet Hall 3rd Floor, (352) 294-0747, nwikowsky@ufl.edu. I have an open-door policy and encourage all of you to take advantage of it. Should any circumstances arise that could affect your performance or attendance, keep me informed to prevent an adverse impact on your academic standing and military training. I am available for walk-in meetings most weekdays except for Tuesday from 0900-1600.

3. Required Texts – There are no hardcopy textbooks required for this class. All required materials, including student readers, are available electronically on the course Canvas page.

If you decide to drop, withdraw, or not meet the attendance requirements stated above, it is your responsibility to ensure you are administratively dropped by your registrar. 13. Academic Freedom – Academic Freedom/Integrity and Non-Attribution: In accordance with AUI36-2602, Ch 4, academic freedom is essential to advancing teaching, learning, and scholarship. Students are free to pursue knowledge, speak, write, and explore complex and controversial concepts and subjects. Academic integrity is the belief in honesty and an intolerance of acts of falsification, misrepresentation, or deception. It is one way that the Air Force core value of integrity is applied within an academic environment. Non-attribution is the principle that protects open expression and discourse within the academic environment. Non-attribution establishes trust relationships by assuring that thoughts and opinions are treated as privileged information not to be shared in other forums nor attributed to a specific individual without prior permission. Due to our military profession, there are some limitations to our academic freedom. This subject will be briefed in detail at the beginning of the semester. Contact the instructor as soon as possible if there are questions or concerns.

14. Academic Policies and Resources – Policies and resources including but not limited to attendance, disabilities, evaluations, honesty policy, and in-class recording may be accessed at <https://syllabus.ufl.edu/syllabus-policy/uf-syllabus-policy-links>.
